PIERCE FIGHTING ON BRITISH FRONT

(By Frederick Palmer, Accredited Correspondent with the British Army of the Press of the United States.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
At the British Front in France, Aug. 24, via London, Aug. 25.—There has been murderous work on both flanks where, with every stage of British progress the fighting seems to become more bitter and the artillery fire hotter.

On the left the Germans hold to Thiepval and on the right they cling to Guillemont, which, of all the ruined villages, is now the most completely pestered by shell fire.

Last night the repulse of the German attempt to drive the British out of the edge of Guillemont and the neighboring stone quarry was one of the bloodiest since the war began.

Tonight the British have been making further progress east of Delville Woods, tightening still closer the pincers on Guillemont and Guillemont.

This afternoon the British pressed forward another lap toward Thiepval and observers witnessed another artillery curtain of fire which utterly silenced the machine guns as the charging British picked their way among the shell craters for 400 yards up the hillside and entered a German trench, sending back the usual number of prisoners.

It was seen as clearly as if on a stage from the gallery, even to the detail of men standing on the edge of the trenches throwing bombs as one might toss biscuits into a basket.

Clearing out snipers and plodding ahead with their supplies of bombs, and carrying light machine guns, that persistent line of infantrymen, under cover of the continuous blasts of their own guns, and in the midst of bursting shells from the German artillery, never faltered but reached the very top of the ridge, at one point along a front of 1,000 yards. They were within only 500 yards of the pulverized remains of what was once the village of Thiepval, which has become the most respectable of names to hundreds of thousands of men.

Meanwhile, the British kept on sending 15-inch shells into the Thiepval area and German dugouts which lie deep under the wreckage of the houses, and spouts of smoke and dust rose to heights of 200 feet and what looked like bodies of men or sections of timbers were tossed

BRITISH SEIZE U. S. FISHING BOATS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The state department still is without any official information regarding the seizure of the American fishing schooners Maxine Elliott and Lizzie Griffin, by British cruisers while fishing in the open sea off the coast of Iceland. Consul-General Robert P. Skinner at London has demanded an explanation but has been told that it can not be made until a report has been received from the admiralty. The two schooners are held at Lerwick, Shetland Islands, and their detention may add to the friction constantly growing between the United States and Great Britain over the latter's maritime methods.

In connection with this seizure and the detention of 150 Dutch and many Norwegian and Swedish fishing craft the American embassy at London has communicated to the state department that, so far as the Dutch and Scandinavians are concerned, the British government plans to justify its action. It will, in its reply to the Netherlands government now about complete, admit the right of Dutch fishermen to ply their trade anywhere but will declare that the majority of the fleet now are controlled by German capital and that the catch invariably finds its way into Germany for consumption there.

Great Britain, in substantiation of its claim that practically all of the fish caught by the Dutch fleet in the North Sea is shipped to Germany and Austro-Hungary, will explain in minute detail the preparations of the German central purchasing agency, which, it will be claimed, cloaks its activities in the Netherlands under the name N. V. Algemeine Import and Export Company. England will allege that this concern "by insidious means" controls in some cases and in others actually directs, a score of Scandinavian countries. This control and ownership by Germans, according to the British view, will preface figures compiled by English agents in Holland, seeking to prove conclusively that all except a relatively small percentage of the fishing fleet's catch is sent across the border to Germany and her ally.

The British answer, it is stated, will deplore the necessity of taking such drastic steps and disclaim intention of inflicting any permanent injury on Dutch fishing industry.

BREMEN CAUGHT IN WIRE NETTING?

Latest Story is That the Submarine Was Captured on Date Earlier Than Germans Say She Left Bremen.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 25.—That the German trans-Atlantic freight submarine Bremen has been captured by the British and taken into the port of Dover with two members of her crew of 35 dead from suffocation, was the information brought here today on the White Star liner Baltic. The informant refused to allow the use of his name.

According to the story the Bremen became entangled in wire ropes and netting at the eastern end of the English Channel on August 2, and was taken into Dover harbor five days later.

The man giving the information is an officer of a British merchant vessel and the brother of an officer in the English navy.

For several days before the Baltic sailed from Liverpool there had been rumors of the capture of the submarine.

The bearer of the information finally got in touch with his brother, the naval officer, who confirmed the reports.

When the Bremen became entangled, it was said, she had evidently tried to free herself and when she was found by British destroyers, her stern was near the surface but her bow was firmly held by the netting. The German seamen were unable to escape because the conning tower was under water.

The Bremen had been constructed for three days continuous submersion and her enforced longer stay under the surface had used up all the oxygen with the result that the surviving seamen were in a deplorable condition.

The work of cutting the submarine free from the entanglements was concluded on August 7.

The Bremen, the officer said, is 350 feet long whereas her sister ship, the Deutschland, is only 315 feet in length. The censor refused to allow the publication of the Bremen's character, it was said, in order to mislead the Germans.

The Overseas News Agency of Berlin, in a despatch sent out yesterday, stated that the Bremen did not sail from Germany for the United States until August 16.

GOOD LOOKS TO COUNT SMALL CROWDS AT ORANGE CO. FAIR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 25.—Gentlemen, if you are good looking to a point that your prepossessing aspect causes comment, take the state civil service examination for the position of confidential agent to the state treasury of public buildings which is to be held September 22.

According to the circular of the state civil service commission recently issued, good looks will be carefully considered for the place above mentioned. As a matter of fact two of the qualifications set forth in the circular announcing the date of the examination are that all applicants be possessed of "a pleasing appearance and good address." This is the first time, as far as can be learned, that the state has included in its requirements for those seeking public places the proviso that good clothes comely features and ingratiating mannerisms shall be possessed by those who hope to land.

Of course there are also other requirements, but "a pleasing appearance and good address" are printed as the second and third most important prerequisites, if the manner in which the essentials are printed were set forth to accentuate the needed possessions.

It appears the confidential agent is to receive a salary of $1,800 a year and that he must be at least thirty years of age and that strict honesty, tact, energy and a working knowledge of commercial contracts are required. Notwithstanding all this, personal fitness is to count two in the total of five counts, in favor of the various applicants when taken in conjunction with education and experience.

A pleasing appearance in social life has always been an asset for popularity, but the fact that the state civil service commission regards it as a necessity, establishes a precedent. Hereafter you have failed to secure a state place, hope on; yours may be the exact personality that the state civil service commission is seeking.

What may prove the greatest drawback is the fact that there is only one place open, so that if there is a superabundance of handsome men, the selection of the winner of the examination may resolve into a beauty contest which only a Paul Swann could win.

Blanks for those who intend to take the examination will not be sent by mail after September 18, the circular says, and moreover, such blanks received after September 20 will not be accepted. This provision, however, applies to all of the other examinations listed to be held September 30.

Another place which it appears has been difficult to fill, is that of bath attendant for the state reservation at Saratoga Springs. The position pays from $40 to $75 per month and is open for both men and women. Several examinations have been held and yet not a sufficient number of applicants have taken them to fill the positions which were open. The requirements for applicants do not include a handsome visage or parlor manners. Brawny and experience in administering Turkish, Russian, mineral and brine baths are deemed more valuable. Pure noses will not thwart ambition to serve the state.

Next Arrested Again.

Fred Hecht was arrested on Thursday by Policeman Ryan on a charge of public intoxication. He will be arraigned later before Recorder Lang. He was not sober enough to be arraigned today.

NEW FACTS ON BRITISH BOYCOTT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Following the demand for a reply to its protest against further interference with mails between neutral countries and the United States, this government will press in sharp terms for immediate action on its boycott demands. The conferences now in progress here between Secretary of State Lansing and Ambassadors Page and Sharp, home on "vacation leave" from London and Paris respectively, has placed the United States in possession of new and important facts in both cases. This information shows that the situation is becoming more and more critical, going very close to an organized conspiracy against American business interests.

When Secretary Lansing conferred with the American ambassadors he developed the fact that the complaints already filed with his department and the department of commerce, and carefully guarded from publicity, seem only to scratch the surface of the situation. The great New York banking interests, the secretary has learned, have been forced to abandon nearly all of their plans for financing upon a large scale international trade with neutral countries because of the combined Anglo-French boycott on American merchants and interference with the mails.

The financial concerns are refraining from making any further appeals to the state department because of the failure to get action in the past. Their present method is simply to cite the facts without comment. They declare that it has been necessary practically to stop such transactions as the handling of commercial letters of credit involving shipments of merchandise to foreign ports. They also state that they have notified their correspondents in foreign capitals of the situation and will wait relief if it can be secured by this government without attempting any new business.

There are on file with the department of commerce and the state department complaints which show conclusively that cablegrams, many bearing upon the most vital financial questions, have been subject to five and six days' delay, and sometimes as much as ten in transmission from Stockholm, Bern, The Hague and other neutral capitals. Mail advices are held up so long as to be absolutely worthless when they arrive here.

It is now considered certain before Secretary Lansing and Ambassadors Page and Sharp will receive instructions specifically to demand relief at the hands of the French and British foreign offices. They have conferred with Secretary Lansing and will also talk things over at length with President Wilson before sailing. The situation admittedly is intolerable but it has been impossible to even get a direct reply to protests because of the diplomatic red tape with which the Entente Allies have surrounded all of their operations.

BREMEN EXPECTED AT NEW LONDON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New London, Ct., Aug. 25.—The North German Lloyd steamer Willehad, which was erroneously reported to have arrived here last night, came through the Race, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning and headed into the harbor. Tugs of the T. A. Scott Company, which had been waiting for a message by wireless announcing her arrival, put out at once to tow her into the state pier, where a berth has been reserved for her near the warehouse of the Eastern Forwarding Company, now in course of construction and believed to be preparing for the arrival here of the submarine Bremen.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ROB HOUSE

Strange Man Attempts to Break in Residence of Mrs. Murphy on Tompkins Street—Threatens to Shoot Her.

A hurry call to police headquarters about 3 o'clock this morning from Mrs. Murphy of No. 30 Tompkins street caused Policeman Reardon to hurry to the scene. From what he learned it appears Mrs. Murphy was awakened by hearing steps and going to the front door she found a strange man who threatened to shoot her if she made an outcry. She slammed the door in his face. She was unable to give the policeman a description of the man. A search through the house disclosed the fact that nothing had been stolen.

GAS EXPLOSION AT HONK HILL

Ellenville, Aug. 25.—An acetylene gas plant exploded in the cellar of the Barrow Farm Cottage at Honk Hill Wednesday night causing injury to the manager Samuel Moll and Charles Stangle of Lockport, an employee.

Mrs. Jacob Hendler a guest sustained a broken leg and several other guests were quite seriously injured. About 70 guests were about the house. Among them Dr. C. T. Rose recently returned from service with the Red Cross in the European war field. About ten minutes before supper time Mr. Moll and Mr. Stangle went into the cellar to attend to the lighting plant and one of them lit a match and the above result followed. The guests around were thrown in all directions and great excitement followed. Dr. Thayer of Napanoch, Neal and Coles of Ellenville were summoned and soon reached the scene and did all they could for the injured. The kitchen and dining room were completely ruined. Fortunately there was no fire to add to the damage, although about two hours later fire was discovered but was extinguished with the hose about the house.

LABOR LEADERS WILL NOT RECEDE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The brotherhoods' representatives now in Washington conferring with President Wilson and the presidents and managers of the various railroads of the country in an effort to prevent a general strike will not recede from their acceptance of President Wilson's plan to end the controversy. But under no circumstances will they make any further concessions to the railroads.

President Wilson was so informed by the grand officers of the Brotherhoods at a conference in the White House today, which lasted for one hour and twenty-five minutes. While his cabinet members "cooled their heels" outside his study, the president discussed the situation with the brotherhood leaders, seeking to find whether there was not some other compromise plan which could be agreed upon that would force a speedy settlement. The brotherhood men told the president that they and their associates had accepted his plan of an eight hour work day on a ten-hour basis of pay in good faith, abandoning all collateral questions including the demand for overtime, and that they must now stand pat. If the roads will not yield, they said, there was nothing for the men to do but order a general strike.

While the brotherhood men conferred with the president, the managers and executives of the railroads held their first secret conference in their headquarters in the Willard Hotel.

Typhus in Mexico.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., Aug. 25.—An epidemic of typhus has broken out in Aguas Calientes, Mex. A letter received from there today said that carloads of corpses are being sent out for burial.

AUTOMOBILISTS MUST OBEY LAW

Albany Avenue the Only Place Where Quarantine Officers are Having Trouble and an Example Will be Made.

Members of the quarantine squad stationed on Albany avenue have reported to Dr. Frank A. Johnston, the health officer, that several automobile drivers have refused to stop when flagged. Each member of the squad stationed on the roads leading in to Kingston is equipped with a red flag with which to flag vehicles. The quarantine squad have been instructed where automobiles refuse to stop to secure the number of the car, and examples will be made of all who refuse to stop when signaled. They will be arrested and brought before Recorder Lang.

No New Cases.

Up to noon today no new and no suspicious cases of infantile paralysis had been reported to Dr. Johnston.

More Mixed Geography.

It did appear at first that some kind friends had loaned the state board of health a geography, but later facts seem to indicate that they have mislaid it. In the list of new cases given out to the morning newspapers the state board of health locates Liberty in Ulster county and Marlborough in Orange county.

Two Cases Passed Through.

Dr. Clarke, of the health board, was kept busy on Thursday night when an automobile containing two babies, each a victim of infantile paralysis, came into Kingston from Pine Hill. It seems that the driver of the machine had gotten somewhat mixed in his orders. He understood the children were to be taken to a hospital, and Kingston was the nearest city with a hospital. After the driver of the car had read the letter he had in his pocket he found, however, that it stated the cases were to be taken to New York city. They were sent on their way by Dr. Clarke.

Aerodrome Draws a Crowd.

Three changes of the program will be made next week. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Tonight the company will put on the "Sensory Girls" and a very funny farce, also an amateur performance with several local people taking part.

NEW FLIM FLAM GAME IS WORKED

Man Impersonates a Policeman and Collects $1.75 From a Woman for Tying Her Horse to Telegraph Pole—Had Detective's Badge.

Something new in the flim flam game was worked on Manor avenue the other day, according to reports made to the police department. It seems that a woman drove up to a telegraph pole on Manor avenue, and being anxious to observe the traffic ordinance, she tied the horse to a pole while she went into a house nearby. When she came out she was accosted by a young man who flashed a detective's badge and informed her she was under arrest. Asking what the charge was she was informed that it was against the law to tie a horse to a telegraph pole, but as the officer was of an obliging nature he would not take her to the city hall if she paid him the $1.75 which would be imposed as a fine. She paid the "fine." Later she reported the matter to the police and learned that she had been "stung." She described the man as a tall fellow with sandy hair and dressed in a blue suit of clothes. At last reports the "detective" is still at large.

CONSIDER KINGSTON HAVEN OF SAFETY

It has recently come to light that there are several families who either came to Kingston to spend a part of their vacations earlier in the summer or who have come here later since the increase of the infantile paralysis epidemic, and who now contemplate remaining here until there is practically an abatement of the terrible disease. They are remaining here, not because of any quarantine, having been here beyond their quarantine period, but because they consider Kingston the safest place to be with their children, owing to the efficiency of Health Officer, Dr. Johnston, and the health board.

Threw a Glass at Him.

Elisha Jones, a negro employed on Hutton's brickyard, was arrested on Thursday evening by Policeman Dugan on a charge of disorderly conduct. This morning Elisha was arraigned before Recorder Lang and said he was talking with another man when the cook butted in and threw a glass at him. He chased the cook but did not catch him. There was no appearance on the part of the cook to press the charge and Elisha was discharged.

WICKS CHAMPIONS CAUSE OF FARMERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 25.—"Wives and children of New York state farmers work under conditions approximating those of slave labor. The farmers are entitled to an advance of a cent a quart for their milk and should receive 4 1/2 cents for it."

This statement was made by State Senator C. W. Wicks, chairman of the legislative committee here today to investigate the milk situation. District Attorney Swann had a representative at the hearing. He is prepared to take immediate action if evidence indicating violation of the law is brought out.

After hearing the testimony of producers today, the committee will get to the point of view of the milk dealers.

"Twenty-five per cent of the farmers of the state are being supported by their cattle," said Senator Wicks. "Their land has deteriorated in value and their buildings are in need of repair. They have not enough money to make improvements."

"Twenty-five per cent are about breaking even. Still another quarter of them are just getting along through the hard work of their wives and daughters. Farmers' wives and children work for practically nothing and their condition is practically that of slave labor. The remaining quarter of the farmers are making a little money selling blooded stock."

Senator Wicks said the committee was here to attempt to effect an amicable adjustment of the milk controversy through the co-operation of the dealers. He pointed out that New York has lost first place in the dairying industry to Wisconsin.

Senator Wicks said the committee would subpoena the books of fifteen milk dealers so that expert accountants could go over them.

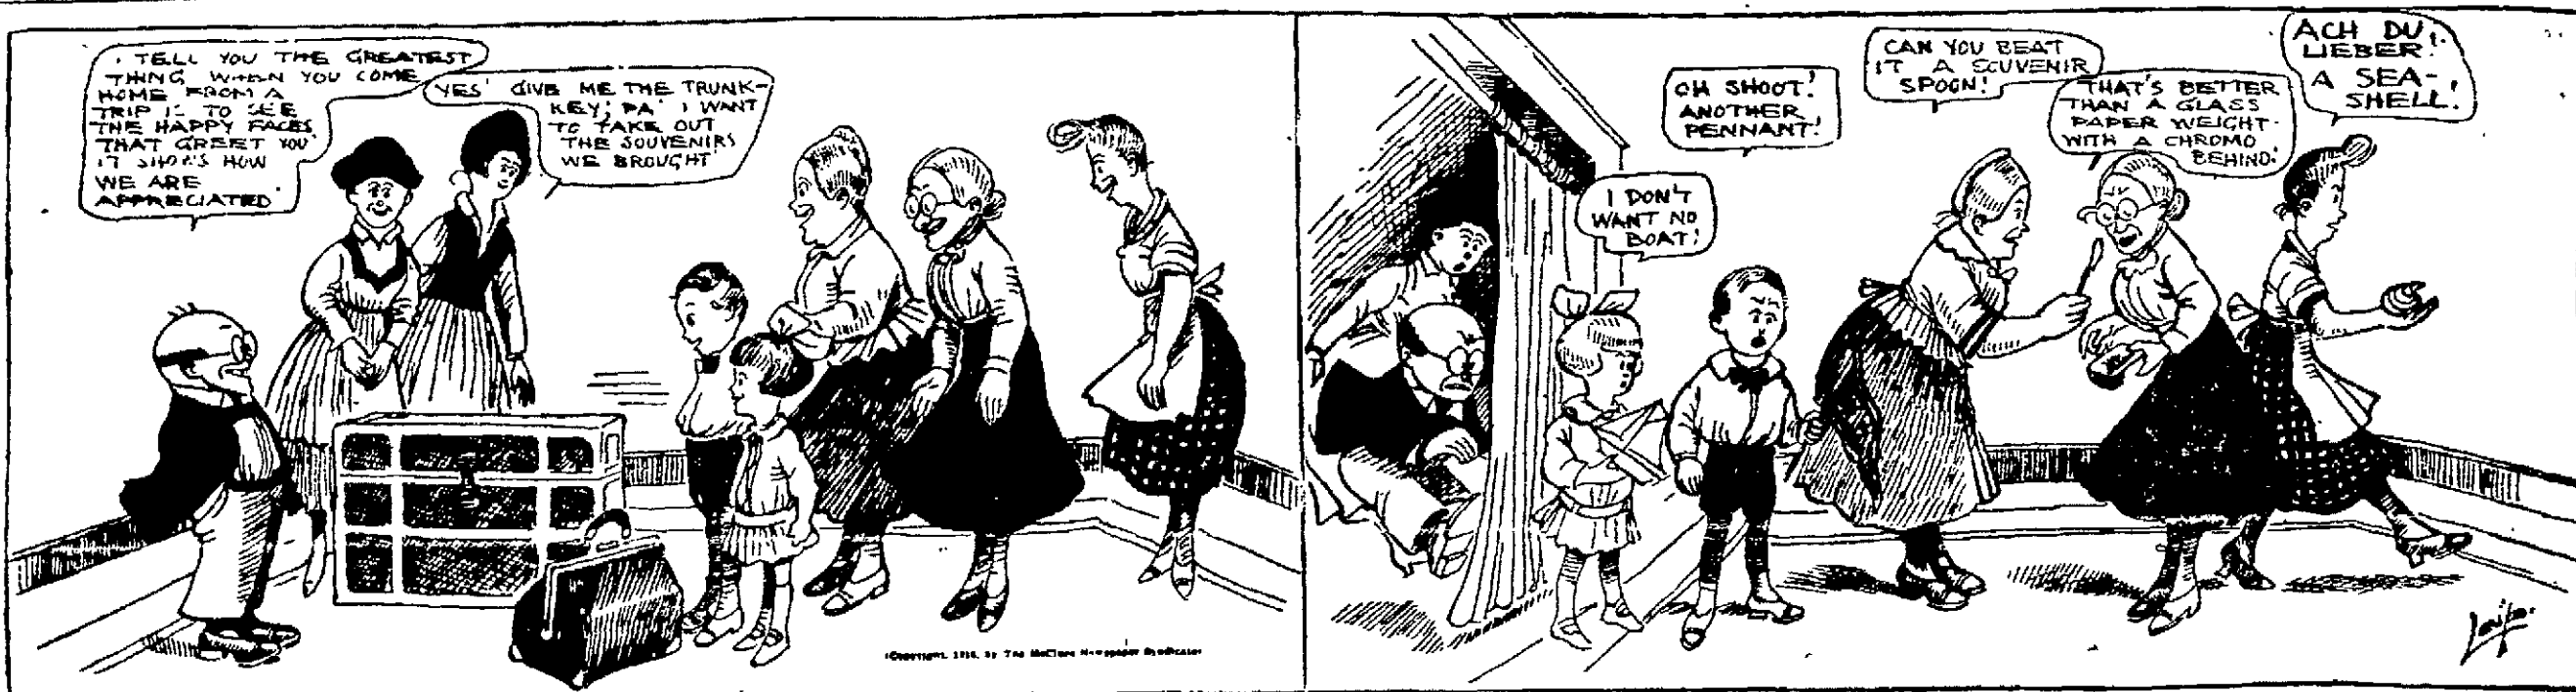

"Conditions in New York state are very bad," said he. "The state stands to lose one of its best paying industries."

CITY FOLKS WOULD BORROW FOR FARM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 25.—The Federal Farm Loan Board, which is making a tour of the country for the purpose of acquainting farmers with all phases of federal loans to farmers, held a hearing here today. This was the first stop in the middle west.

The board consists of William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury; Herbert Quile, George W. Norris, Captain W. A. Smith and Charles E. Leibel, but all were not present today. From here the board goes to Madison, Wis., for a hearing tomorrow and at Des Moines, Iowa, on the following Monday. The board will then go to the Pacific coast, holding hearings at all the capital cities and will return to Springfield, Ill., for a hearing there on September 21.

Some time the treasury department at Washington has been swamped with letters from farmers who are anxious to know how they can obtain loans from the government. The present tour is being made to show the plan of operation. Under the terms of the bill recently passed by congress the federal loan board will establish twelve land banks in the country. Their locations and the districts they will govern have not yet been decided.

The stock of the banks, which are to be capitalized for about $150,000, will first be offered to the public. Then, if it is not all taken up, the government will purchase the rest and the banks will be ready to advance money to the farmers.

The law prohibits any one man from borrowing money. Groups of ten must be formed, which will petition the federal bank of their district as a group. This bank will then send appraisers to inspect the farms of the petitioners and capital will be advanced up to 50 per cent of the value of the lands offered as security.

Among the thousands of letters received by the treasury department from persons who wish to use the new law are many from residents of cities who have saved a little money. Most of these want to buy farms immediately, obtaining the balance of their capital under the terms of the law.

IDEAL PARK.

Ideal Park, Aug. 24.—A delightful little birthday party was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DeVal's, fifth birthday. The children were entertained with games and music until 6 p. m., when they were served with ice cream, sandwiches, cake, etc., by Mrs. DeVal, Arthur Bourgeois being the lucky one in discovering the coin, and Edmund Bourgeois the button in the birthday cake, which was decorated with five candles. Little Miss Helen's presents were both numerous and beautiful. Among those present from out of town were Arthur and Edmund Bourgeois, Master and Dawson Bennett of Brooklyn, Clyde and Hilton Matthews of Kingston, Miss Lucile Post of Philadelphia, Miss Carolyn Newbegin and Miss Edyth Bennett of Brooklyn.

Mt. Tobias huckleberries caused considerable apprehension in Ideal Park one day last week, when some of the more venturesome residents went huckleberrying without a guide. Dr. Loinaz, who after locating the points of the compass, finally guided the wanderers to safety, much to the relief to anxious mothers.

The Sons of Rest of Ideal Park, although somewhat depleted in membership this season, plan to hold their annual meeting about September 1.

We are very thankful to say that we have had no infantile paralysis in Ideal Park so far and we sincerely hope that we shall not have.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The men of the earth build houses, halls, And chamber, roofs and domes. But the women of earth, we know, The women build the homes.

JELLY MAKING.

There are two elements needed to make good jelly. These are pectin and acidic juices.

When these are present the success or failure depends almost entirely upon the amount of sugar used. The old rule of a measure of juice to a measure of sugar has no doubt been the cause of most of our poor jellies.

A given volume of juice which contains a certain amount of pectin can use a definite proportion of sugar only. Currants and partly ripened grapes are rich in pectin, and are fairly acid so that they usually demand equal measures, while three-fourths to one will be the proper proportion for raspberries and blackberries. Much depends upon the fruit itself.

When it is necessary to add water to fruits boil the juice until it is by appearance and taste ready for the addition of sugar.

After the winter's supply of grape juice has been made, cover the pulp with water and use for jelly or a good marmalade may be made from this by-product.

The more thoroughly the juice is clarified by skimming before the sugar is added the better from an economical standpoint.

Sugar is heated before adding to the juice to save time in the cooking process.

By using sour apple juice with fruits too sweet, or lacking in pectin a most palatable article may be prepared.

Blueberries make a most tasty jelly which has enough acid in it to give it character.

The best quick test for time to remove jelly is when the jelly breaks off as a portion of it is dropped from the spoon. The time-honored one of cooling a little in a saucer is not a safe one, for many things may happen to the hot jelly waiting on the stove. Time is too precious at this stage to waste it in long experiments.

The length of time for boiling depends upon the kind of fruit juice, and the richness (or amount of water it contains).

MR. ROOSA'S TALE OF HIS LOST ROLL

But His Story Did Not Hang Together—He Accused Steward on Romer of Keeping $25—Steward Found Not Guilty.

Some time ago William Roosa, a colored youth residing at No. 44 Ten Brock avenue, appeared before Recorder Lang at his office on the Strand, and told a tale of how he had given $25 for safe keeping to George Godfrey, steward on the steamer Romer. At that time Mr. Roosa said the money was in five dollar bills, and that he had not thought it best to keep it in his room as it was not safe. He accordingly turned it over to Mr. Godfrey he said. Later when he left the boat he had asked Mr. Godfrey for the money, but the latter had told him he had no money belonging to him—Roosa.

The case was held open until today by Recorder Lang, as Mr. Roosa was employed on a boat of the Old Dominion line and would not be in Kingston until today. This morning Mr. Roosa's story was somewhat different from that told at the first hearing. Today he said the money was in two tens and a five dollar bill. He also said that he had asked Godfrey for it several times, but the latter had kept putting him off saying he would pay the next day. Finally Godfrey offered him $15 which he refused to take as he wanted the full amount. Mr. Roosa was also a trifle mixed up on the dates of the occurrence. At the first hearing he said he gave the money to Godfrey in April and this morning he fixed the date at May 5.

From the story as brought out by Mr. Roosa and Mr. Godfrey the latter succeeded Mr. Roosa's father as steward on the boat owing to the older Mr. Roosa's illness. Young Mr. Roosa was in charge of the soft drink booth on the boat, and was furnished with supplies by the Central Hudson Company. One day Mr. Godfrey said he came around and asked Mr. Roosa how business was and Mr. Roosa replied that it was poor for the company, but his stuff was selling all right. It developed that Mr. Roosa had imported some soft drinks on his own account which he was selling. Mr. Godfrey called the attention of one of the company's officials to Mr. Roosa's business deal, and Mr. Roosa was fired.

Shortly after that he had Mr. Godfrey arrested for refusing to return the alleged $25 he said he gave Godfrey for safe keeping.

Mr. Roosa also called attention to the fact that he was held responsible for all the ice cream and soft drinks that were sold and that Mr. Godfrey had to take some of the refreshments and did not pay him and that he had to make good what Mr. Godfrey ate and drank which amounted to $25.

This was denied by Mr. Godfrey who said he had full charge and he was the one who was held responsible.

Unfortunately for Mr. Roosa's case regarding the ice cream and soft drinks and his responsibility over them and obligation to make good it developed that Recorder Lang some time had been employed as clerk by the Central Hudson Company and he informed Mr. Roosa that Mr. Godfrey was correct in his contention that he—Godfrey—was the one held responsible and not Mr. Roosa.

Mr. Godfrey when he took the witness stand denied emphatically the story told by Mr. Roosa and said that the latter had never given him any money to keep for him.

Recorder Lang found Mr. Godfrey not guilty and discharged him. It was also brought out during the trial that Mr. Roosa has information regarding that warmer climate where some men in the heat of passion consign another by word of mouth. He said that when he asked Mr. Godfrey for the money that the latter had told him that he would get it when "it froze over," and that is not some to happen," said Mr. Roosa.

While the case was dragging along Roosa was bombarding the newspapers with statements and affidavits, the latest of which is as follows:

State of New York, County of New York, ss.:
William D. Roosa being duly sworn deposes and says that he lives at 44 Ten Brock avenue, Kingston, N. Y., and that he worked for the Central Hudson Line eleven years and that he was employed on the steamer William F. Romer four years at the ice cream and soda stand and that he never kept or retained any money not rightfully belonging to him, nor did he tell Mr. Godfrey, the steward of the William F. Romer, that he kept any money from the company at any time since his employment.

W. D. ROOSA.

Calro Barn Burned.
During Wednesday's storm a large barn at Calro Junction, owned by Chas. Chidester, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed by fire which followed. Between forty and fifty tons of hay was stored in the barn and this made a great blaze, making it impossible for the fire to be put out with the small amount of water available.

Fire at Greenfield.
Ellenville, Aug. 25.—A large boarding house of Joseph Blooming at Greenfield was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. The house was set on fire from a lamp explosion. There were seventy five boarders at this house who lost all their belongings as they watched the fire destroy the house and contents.

ELISE HASBROUCK SINGS.

Delightful Song Recital Given at Cragmoor on Thursday.

Elise Hasbrouck of this city gave a most delightful song recital at the Cragmoor Inn Thursday afternoon. In the theatrical auditorium there a large audience gathered at 3 o'clock to hear a charming program, charmingly sung, and the first song served to establish that thing that makes a concert full of keen enjoyment to both singer and hearers—an atmosphere of enthusiastic rapport. Miss Hasbrouck has a beautiful lyric soprano voice of a rare quality and she sings with great feeling and delicate interpretation. Gifted with such talent and so charming a personality, it is felt by her friends that she has a great future.

This concert was arranged for the benefit of St. John's Floating Hospital and was a great success. Among the audience were several people who motored up from Kingston.

Farm Labor Scarce.

Farm labor continues scarce and in demand, though there are not so many inquiries for farm hands as there were a month ago. The farm hands are receiving from $2 to $2.75, and in some instances $3 a day with board. Reports from Greene county are that men cannot be secured for even the highest wage, and that if conditions are not remedied shortly crops will suffer greatly.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 25, 1916.

There has been no publication for some time of the text of any note from President Wilson or Secretary Lansing to any foreign Government regarding outstanding issues, but messages are being sent just the same, and such facts as have leaked out are interesting. It will be remembered that the German Government said it had "punished" the submarine commander who torpedoed the Sussex. Our Government, it is now learned, asked what was the nature of the punishment, which information was bluntly refused. Our Government also asked Germany for information regarding the torpedoing of the Owego, and was again met with a flat refusal, accompanied by the remark that Germany was in no mood for further explanations, which is equivalent to our slang phrase, "You make me tired." Everybody knows that the Lusitania case is still open, and the Washington Administration is maintaining silence regarding it doubtless being ashamed to let the people know how badly it has been scubbed. Secretary Lansing admits that he has just asked Great Britain and France when they are going to reply to his notes regarding mail seizures, and they will probably tell him to wait until they get ready. Some day all these delightful bits of correspondence will be published, but there is no likelihood of this during the campaign. Given peace-at-any-price men gag at some things.

Executive preparedness is a National necessity. No better indication of the importance of such quality could be found than in the utter lack of anything resembling it in the record of the Wilson administration. The chief features of the Federal Government as at present conducted, have been its manifest shortcomings in administrative capacity as well as in statesmanship. President Wilson's own expressed idea of his office is that in it are vested the responsibilities of leadership. Contrary to his theory, practice has found his followers heading first in one direction, then in the other, a condition confusing even for the dyed-in-the-wool Democrats who have sidestepped platform pledges as readily as they have gotten out from under currency fallacies espoused twenty years ago. The plight of Representative Kitchin, who was the navy pacifist and who was deserted by the President when the latter came round to adopt the original Republican ideas for a greater navy, is an instance of what party leaders have experienced in following the President. That same shifting style of statesmanship has marked all the Wilson policies.

The French military authorities have issued an order forbidding soldiers to wear beards, although moustaches are still permitted. The explanation which most naturally occurs to one is that the measure is regarded as a sanitary one, it being difficult to keep whiskers clean in the trenches, but this appears to be incorrect, in view of a statement issued by General Cherfils. This general has found that the beard of a trooper weighs on an average sixty grammes, which multiplied by the two million men affected comes to one hundred and twenty tons, which is a terrible weight to carry around. The principle involved in this calculation is quite familiar. Every little while some friend of humanity comes forward with figures showing the tremendous loss which has resulted from the time spent in dotting the letter 'i' and crossing the letter 't'. That "efficiency" of which we hear so much seems to consist largely in getting one's work done sooner and spending the time thus saved in loafing. We have heard it proved that if table utensils were made lighter the energy thus saved would in the aggregate be sufficient to build a dozen Panama canals. It never seems to occur to these mathematicians that it is useless to preserve anything which is too small to see or handle.

If a mistake has been committed in the conviction of a murderer, it is better to rectify it in the courts than to wait until after the death house has ended all opportunity for reparation. Hence, in the Stielow case over which there has been so much controversy, Judge Rodenbeck did well to postpone the hearing until the last week in September, when the distinguished array of counsel now representing the accused will have the opportunity to present the findings in regard to the alleged confession of Erwin King, charged with being an accessory to the murders of which Stielow is claimed to be innocent. The peculiarities that have marked the conduct of the public prosecutor of Orleans county since the production of King may be ascribed to a belief that Stielow's backers are largely composed of sentimentalists anxious to make a case against capital punishment. The more this apparently simple case can be befogged with mystery so much more publicity can be given in behalf of the anti-death-penalty people. At the same time, Stielow is entitled to justice and no harm can result from the full-out airing for the new evidence to be given in his behalf.

TOPICS NEW YORK IS TALKING ABOUT

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 25.—There appear to be excellent prospects of a settlement of the railway strike, upon the basis of a trial by the railroads of an 8-hour day, with arbitration of extra pay for overtime and other questions of controversy. The president has committed himself to a broad and generous increase of freight rates and his influence to that end doubtless will be exerted on the Interstate Commerce Commission, unless, of course, he changes his mind. In the estimation of politicians, the president's part in the strike settlement is to be by no means as far reaching as he and his friends had hoped. Both parties to the controversy have become so firmly convinced that Mr. Wilson's chief aim throughout has been to make political capital for himself that they regard him as having forgotten completely his position of mediator and as having handled both sides solely from the standpoint of political expediency. At the start, Mr. Wilson won the confidence and approbation of the union men when he flatly espoused the 8-hour day, but as time has worn on, as he had persuaded the unions to hold in abeyance their demand for punitive overtime pay and to make other concessions they have come to distrust his sincerity and, some of them at least, to regard his original stand for the 8-hour day as rather in the nature of "a grand stand play" than a sincere espousal of the principle for which they contend. And with their loss of confidence has come grave distrust as to how far such of their interests they leave in the president's hands will be safeguarded. The general public is not pleased with Mr. Wilson's conduct of the negotiations either, because he has given the railroads so much encouragement to make increases of freight rates which must involve a discount on the products of every producer and manufacturer and probably increase the cost of living to a great majority of the people. As seen by certain close and dispassionate observers, President Wilson has played a double game instead of adhering strictly to the role of mediator and this course is likely to be productive of general injury.

The Mexican Commission.

That President Wilson has named a strong Mexican commission, in Secretary Lane, Judge George Gray and Dr. John R. Mott is generally conceded. Secretary Lane has a pretty keen grasp of the Mexican situation as is evidenced by his frank way of making of all the huddling about the first invasion having been to force a split of the American flag and his frank avowal that its sole purpose was to drive Huerta out. Judge Gray is a man of demonstrated judicial attainments little given to extreme partisanship. Dr. Mott's wide experience in connection with the Mexican situation is likely to prove valuable. And yet in the light of past experience and present events that this commission has any mission other than to "tide over" the Mexican situation until after the election is difficult to perceive. Function has recommended the withdrawal of American troops from Mexican territory and Pershing reports that Villa's power is crushed. As the declared primary purpose of the conference was to discuss conditions on which the troops would be withdrawn, its reason for being appears to have passed before it came into existence. There is, of course, another phase. Carranza wants money and President Wilson wants Americans to advance it. Possibly, after all, the chief purpose of the conference, aside from tidying over the situation until after election is to provide American funds for Carranza. The American commissioners will probably spend several delightful months at the sea shore at the government's expense, and yet they probably are entitled to sympathy because of the great likelihood that they will be made fools of, as were the Mexican delegates to Niagara Falls, two years ago.

Truth Will Out.

Those Democrats who bitterly resented the Republican charge that the president advocated a tariff commission purely as a matter of political expediency have become deeply concerned over their realization that they have provided salaries of only $7,500 a year for the six members of the tariff commission, whereas the members of the farm loan board will receive $10,000 a year. This is, of course, simply a further proof that the Democrats generally have little faith in a tariff commission and that in creating it they were merely obeying the president and not enacting what they regarded as legislation of importance. An effort has been made to put responsibility for the lower salary of the tariff commissioners on the Republicans—who have extremely little faith in a tariff commission to be appointed by President Wilson but investigation proves that the man who was really responsible for $7,500 salaries is Representative Cullip of Indiana, a tariff for revenue only Democrat. As compared with the $12,000 a year of the federal reserve board and the $10,000 a year of the farm loan board, the $7,500 of the tariff commission looks small.

A Sad Disappointment.

Secretary McAdoo, who is enjoying the cool weather of New England and at the same time seeking light on the manner in which the farm loan bank legislation is being received, has suffered a serious disappointment. It was expected that the enactment of this legislation would constitute one of the strongest talking points of the administration in the campaign. On the contrary, Mr. McAdoo is finding that there has not been and is no demand for a government bank to make loans to farmers in the New England states. He has visited Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts and in each has been informed that the New England

MOVING OHIO BUILDING.

BUILDING WEIGHING 1,000 TONS MOVED ACROSS SAN FRANCISCO BAY.

One of the greatest feats of transporting an entire building from one place to another, intact, has just been completed in San Francisco. The Ohio building at the Panama Pacific Exposition, was moved for a distance of thirty miles across San Francisco Bay, to be used as a club house by one of the prominent yachting clubs. The building is 80 feet wide and 122 feet long, and weighs 1,000 tons. It was transported on gigantic scows, pulled by a tug, as shown in the picture.

farmer can get all the money he can reasonably expect from the savings banks and similar institutions with which he is accustomed to do business. It is becoming evident that only where the federal loan bank is prepared to loan money at considerably less than its market value will it be particularly welcomed. It is possible conditions may prove different in the west, but the Wilson administration can make little capital out of this piece of legislation in New England.

Wilson Will Campaign.

The White House announced that President Wilson would not go on the stump. Then Governor Hughes started on his western tour and began to expose the Wilson administration record and it was promptly announced that the president would go on the stump and "go over much the same ground as had Governor Hughes." Then Chairman McCormick rushed over to Washington and, after a talk with the president, announced that Mr. Wilson considered it "incompatible with the dignity of the presidency" to go on the stump. Now Mr. McCormick has announced in Chicago that President Wilson will speak there and in a number of other sections of the west before the election. All of which recalls the plant of the Democratic member of congress who, when appealed to to stand by the president, replied "It's pretty hard to stand by a man who won't stand still."

Mr. MacDonough prior to his leaving the old homestead for the greater city 15 years ago, was quite a noted marksman with both rifle and shotgun.

It was a common thing for him to bag his two out of three birds on a cross shot. Peter Rabbit could not come too fast for him and old say Reynard was hardly traveling a safety first path at sixty to seventy-five yards distant. To show you that he still retains such ability with the rifle that during his short stay he has bagged at least six to eight snakes of the constrictor type running from eighteen inches to four feet in length. There is also proof of the feat of severing in two with the rifle of a dangerous needle on the wing. It is very incident that should a man of such ability been on the other side during this conflict he would either be wearing an iron cross on his breast or balancing one on his chest by now.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WILL TAKE APPEAL

Will Ask Appellate Division to Overrule Justice Hasbrouck's Decision That Comptroller Must Audit Expenditure Account.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, August 25.—An appeal to the appellate division, from the order of Justice Hasbrouck of Kingston which directs Comptroller Travis to audit the expenses of the New York State Commission of the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be taken by Attorney General Egbert
E. Woodbury. This fact was learned here today.

In his appeal the attorney general will take the stand that the order of Justice Hasbrouck is contrary to the opinion of the department of the attorney general, which opinion was some months ago furnished to Comptroller Travis.

Judge Hasbrouck's Decision.
The opinion by Justice Hasbrouck, which was handed down late on Thursday, is as follows:

For the purpose of participating in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915 the state appropriated $700,000 and appointed a commission "to encourage and promote a full and complete exhibit," consisting of eighteen citizens, fifteen men and three women. The moneys were required to be paid by chapter 541 of the laws of 1912.

"Upon the requisition signed by the chairman and vice chairman of the commission, accompanied by an estimate of the expenses for the payment of which the moneys so drawn was to be applied."

Within ninety days after the close of the exhibition the commission were required to make a report to the comptroller of the disbursements made by it. The time in which this report might be made was extended by law until June 30, last past.

A citizen has made application to the comptroller to have him audit the expenditures of the commission. The comptroller has refused such request and has exhibited in support of the position taken by him the opinion of the attorney general of the state which states that under the terms of the above law of 1912 the comptroller is without power to audit said expenditures.

The language of the attorney general is in part:

"The act (the law of 1912) itself gives to the comptroller no authority whatever. It is a special act complete in itself, providing a complete plan for the accomplishment of the purpose to which the state was committed by its passage. No provisions of any general law relating to the general powers of the comptroller can be extended to cover the expenditures of the commission."

If there were no other law on the subject save that particular act, or if that act constituted the whole law on the subject there would be excellent reason for the position taken in the premises by the comptroller and the attorney general.

Opposed, however, to their position
first stands the constitution itself which provides according to the interpretation put upon it by the court of appeals that the moneys of the state may not under any circumstances be authorized to be paid without audit.

Says Chief Judge Parker in the case of People ex rel Grannis vs. Roberts, 163 N. Y. 74, being the same case relied upon by the comptroller and attorney general.

"In the first place it should be noted that the constitution contemplates that the moneys of the state should not be paid out without an audit, and the legislature is deprived of the power to audit. (Constitution, article III, sections 19 and 21; article VII, section 6.) Two facts must exist before any of the funds of the state can be paid out, first, an appropriation by the legislature, and, second, an audit by such authority as the legislature may create for the purpose."

Opposed also to the position taken by the comptroller and attorney general are the provisions of the state finance law, a revision of the laws which for nearly a century have defined the powers of the comptroller, among other provisions are:

Section 4. "Duties of comptroller.
The comptroller shall:

Subdivision 3. Examine, audit and settle the accounts of all public officers and other persons indebted to the state, and certify the amount or balance due thereon. Subdivision 4.
Examine, audit and liquidate the claims of all persons against the state, if payment thereof out of the treasury is provided for by law."

Section 21. "Rendition of accounts.—The comptroller, from time to time, shall require all public officers and other persons receiving moneys or securities, or having the care and management of any property of the state, of which an account is required to be kept in his office, to render statements thereof to him."

Section 22.—"Statements of accounts rendered.—The comptroller shall state an account against every person who receives moneys belonging to the state for which he does not account when required, charging him with the amount received according to the best information which the comptroller may have in regard thereto."

Section 23.—"Statements of accounts rendered.—The comptroller
shall immediately examine the accounts rendered by every public officer or other person receiving moneys belonging to the state, with the vouchers, and audit, adjust and entertain a statement thereof."

Besides the opposition of these laws the idea seems to prevail among some persons that because the money
has already been spent that there is no need of an audit. With the question as to whether such expenditures templates accounting for moneys re-state's funds to make payments thereon. I see no reason why an audit may not be had as well as a payment made as of a claim to be paid.

An examination of the Grannis case
above referred to shows that section 5 of chapter 794 of the laws of 1894 provided that the superintendent of public works should, upon the certificate of the state engineer, pay to the contractor a certain percentage of the value of the work performed.
The contractor obtained the certificate but the comptroller refused to issue a warrant to pay the amount.
The contractor sued out a writ of mandamus to compel the comptroller to pay upon the certificate of the engineer. In the court of appeals it was finally decided that the comptroller could not be mandamused to pay the amount certified by the engineer but had the power to challenge the certificate.

This Grannis case, the more it is considered the more it appears to be authoritative against the comptroller who cites it. That case was similar in several respects to the one at bar.

The commissioners of the exhibition were empowered to make a requisition upon an "estimate." The only difference between a "certificate" and an "estimate" appears to be that one is made with a degree of exactitude and the other roughly or approximately.

If the comptroller had been guided by the opinion in the Grannis case, and the "estimate" contained items
beyond the power of the commission to purchase or unreasonable in amount or inferior quality, he might have refused, to such an extent under the powers conferred on him by law, to comply with the requisition.
However, the fact that the moneys were advanced in pursuance of the requisition and have already been expended does not leave the state remediless.

Subpoena officers and persons as have received the moneys of the state the comptroller can compel to render an account thereof, or if they will not do so, can state an account against them, or if they have rendered an account or report such as the statute requires of the commissioners, he may audit it. If the claim of the state, ascertained by an audit, be not paid, it is the duty of the comptroller to hand the account over to the attorney general for prosecution.
—State finance laws supra.

The exact point made by the attorney general upon the hearing of the motion for the writ was, as heretofore stated, that the comptroller was without the power to audit in the premises. In other words that he was divested of such power by the particular provisions of chapter 541 above referred to. That is simply a statement that the latter law, chapter 541, repealed the provisions of the state finance law so far as they related to the audit of the accounts of the commissioners of the exhibition. A law once enacted stands until it has been repealed.
It can be repealed directly by a pointed reference to it in a later enactment, or it can be repealed by implication. There is no contention here of the expressed repeal of the state finance law so far as it affects the expenditures of this commission. It would appear that the contention is, as inferred from the language of the attorney general's opinion, that there was a repeal by implication. Such a repeal however never takes place where it is possible to give effect to each of the two statutes relating to the same subject. Between the state finance law, conferring the power of audit upon the comptroller, and the statute requiring the comptroller to pay moneys over to the commissioners upon their estimate, and requiring such commissioners to file a report of how they spent it, there exists no repugnancy. Read together there is a scheme which renders the appropriation act constitutional because what otherwise is wanting in chapter 541, laws of 1912 is supplied in the finance law, viz: "an audit."

The purpose of the statute in requiring the money to be paid to the commission in advance of an audit is to facilitate the carrying on the exhibition; and the requiring of the making of a report within ninety days after the close of the exhibition is to assure the preservation of the record upon which the comptroller may act.

The petition states that the commissioners exceeded the powers conferred upon them by the act in that they fitted up the state building erected by them with sleeping rooms and living accommodations; in that being allowed their "actual and necessary expenses," they used the state building to live in themselves and to entertain in on a grand scale; in that they paid the traveling and entertainment expenses of state officials and several private citizens belonging to the state, in that they paid the traveling and entertainment expenses for themselves and other citizens for visiting other places than the exhibition. In fine
some persons that because the money
of the state was in has already been

A Remarkable Man.
John Ziska, the great Hussite leader of the fifteenth century, was one of the most remarkable men that ever lived. His life story reads like a romance. Nothing in history is more interesting, more thrilling, than the account of his heroic deeds. Though blind and always greatly outnumbered, Ziska invariably beat his enemies and established for himself a fame that will last forever. He was never beaten in a battle. His very name was a terror to his enemies. He died in 1424, while besieging Przemislav, at the age of sixty-four.

Most people think white grapes make white wine and dark grapes make red wine. It is a popular error. Red wine is made by fermenting grape juice and grape skins together, and white wine is made by fermenting grape juice alone.

ZEPPELIN RAID OVER ENGLAND

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 25.—A second Zeppelin raid within twenty-four hours was made over the eastern coast of England early today. There were numerous casualties. Six airships were in the hostile squadron.

The war office, in announcing the foray, said that an attack was directed at ships off the coast.

Both land batteries and high angle guns mounted on ships kept up a hot fire against the raiders and aeroplanes went aloft to give battle to one of the airships but it escaped into the clouds.

The war office report follows: "Six hostile airships raided the eastern and southeastern coasts during the night time. Bombs were dropped at intervals between midnight and 3 o'clock this morning. One airship proceeded westward well inland. The other airships made short inroads over the coast. A number of bombs were dropped by raiders, the total effect of which is still uncertain. Several bombs were directed against ships at sea. The damage effected, so far as known now, was slight. In one locality the railway station and several houses were damaged and two horses were killed. Elsewhere two houses were wrecked. The total casualties are not yet reported. Up to date it is known that nine persons were injured, one fatally. Antiaircraft guns were in action on both the land and on shipboard. Some of our aircraft succeeded in firing into one of the raiders at close range, but it eluded its pursuers in the clouds."

Paris, Aug. 25.—Lieut. Henri Bernstein of the aviation corps of the French army, was today cited in an order of the day for valiant services on the Macedonian front. Lieut. Bernstein distinguished himself in reconnaissance duty and was, Bernstein's exploits achieve additional interest from the fact that he once deserted from the French army. Afterward he fought a duel with Leon Daudet, son of the author of "Sapho." He is one of the foremost playwrights in France.

Houses in Bagdad.

A Bagdad house in the summer is a fiery furnace, and no one, unless his name be Shadrach or Meshach or Abednego, could live within its four walls with comfort, and yet the natives have made a brave attempt to overcome the difficulties of their situation. Deep in the ground they have built cellars or serdabs, and these serve as cooling chambers. The cellars are kept pretty dark. "The light enters," says one who has lived there, "through small windows, or openings, where, instead of glass, is placed a lattice of palm filled with a prickly camel's thorn. Several times a day the occupants sprinkle water on these thorns, and the moisture cools the hot wind as it passes through the rooms and gives a comparatively refreshing breeze. But toward night these cellars become unbearably close, and then the entire city mounts to the flat roofs, where it dines and sleeps."—Boston Transcript.

Warships in Battle.

In the days of wooden war vessels two frigates, or line-of-battle ships, might be lashed together and fire shot into each other's interiors for an indefinite period. When Paul Jones was summoned to surrender he replied that he had not yet been to fight. At a distance of eight miles there would not be much conversation between hostile commanders, even by signals, and after a vessel is hit there isn't much question as to its future. A vessel may be injured by gunfire and get away, but if a floating steel fort is hit below the armor belt by a torpedo or has its deck penetrated by a fifteen inch shell which meets expectations in the promptness of its explosion it does not remain in sight many minutes, and the

The Title "Engineer."

It is unfortunate, according to the Engineering Record, that in America most people associate the word "engineer" with a man who runs an engine or a boiler. Even the man who operates the boilers of an apartment building is called an "engineer," although the name is entirely a misnomer when applied to him. He may be a good mechanic, but he is not an engineer. The gray haired man who drives the locomotive of a transcontinental limited and who holds the lives of hundreds of human beings in his care belongs to the very highest type of mechanic, but he is not an engineer, except in the United States and Canada. All foreign languages have words that properly designate the work these men are doing. In our country there is no word to distinguish them from the bridge builder, the sanitary expert, etc.

Who the Letts Are.

The Letts are a branch of the Lithuanian nation, a Slavonic division, and dwellers in the Baltic provinces of Russia. Lithuania was at one time a great kingdom, later a part of the Polish nation and now embodied in Russia and Prussia. The Letts, a subdivision of the Lithuanian people, at present number more than 2,000,000. They are of average height, well built, but seldom very tall. The finely cut features, fair hair, blue eyes and delicate skins are characteristics that distinguish a Lett from a Pole or a Russian. —Philadelphia Press.

MADE FUNNY FACES TO GET FOOD FROM ARABS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 25.—Captain Gwatkin-Williams has just published an interesting account of the nineteen weeks spent by him and the survivors of his crew as prisoners of the Senussi in the Libyan desert after his ship was torpedoed by a German submarine in the Mediterranean.
"Facial expression," he says, "appears to be very limited among the Arabs and I soon fell into the spirit of the game by doing my tricks," which generally got us a more liberal supply of food, the tricks being no more than assuming an expression of hauteur, superciliousness, contempt or vanity. These caused unfeeling yells of laughter and had to be many times repeated, and after displaying my gold teeth, tattoos, medal ribbon, and diary, the show was considered finished, and we were generally rewarded with dates and milk."
In another place he says the Arabs discussed removing his head as the best way of getting the gold teeth. "Civilized dental treatment always aroused great interest in this land of perfect teeth, and I well remember an occasion when Lieutenant Tanner put the whole of our guards to flight by opening his mouth and letting fall his upper plate of false teeth."
"Here is his description of the Arab etiquette of eating dates and milk:
"The large wooden bowl of milk goes from hand to hand, and you may only drink it with a loud drawing of the breath; an exhausting process, but equalizing the amount you all get."
"Dates you eat as fast as you can, stoning them with one hand all the time, and it is de regueur to throw back the debris in the bowl. I broke my best tooth trying to eat fast enough for my share, but never had a chance, though among my fellow prisoners I had at one time been very unpopular on account of the rate at which I bolted my food."
"Shoes you always took off and hats you always kept on. This annoyed me much in bed, where my feet were cold and my head hot, but there was no appeal."

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke).

New York, Aug. 25.—The longer one looks upon the standing of the big league clubs, the stronger grows the conviction that the batteries for the first world series games this fall will be Pfeffer and Meyers for Brooklyn and Shore and Cady for Boston.

Neither club has cinched the bunting. Both are only a few jumps to the good. But the real feature is that both are jumping just about as quickly—or a little more so—than their nearest rivals.

The Phillies are playing good ball, but it's less than the .600 brand, which isn't enough to overhaul the Dodgers unless they slump badly. The Braves are doing in-and-out work. They, too, have a chance, but no one is gambling heavily on it.

The lead of the Red Sox in the Johnson circuit isn't extremely sizeable, but it seems just about enough to enable Carrigan's pets to slip through to victory, barring some totally unlooked for spurt by one or another of the trailers, or a long losing streak by the Sox.

How Strange.

An exchange says in big headlines:

"Clarence Rowland, leader of the Chicago Americans, smiles when team wins, frowns when it is beaten."

Isn't Clarence the peculiar fellow?

Giants Must Sleep in Beds.

A new rule requires the Giants to be in bed by 8 p. m. Probably because McGraw wants them to do their sleeping in their rooms, not on the ball field, as in the past month or so.

In Chicago they used to call 'em the Cubs. Now they've made it the Dubs.

A bevy of big league scouts are casting covetous glances in the direction of Harold Hoekheimer, who is shortstopping in sensational style for the Bridgeport. (Conn.) team.

The Flop of the Mighty.

Benny Kauff, the batting demon of the Feds for two seasons, the same Benny who said he'd make Ty Cobb resemble a bush leaguer—

Well, Benny was removed from the Giant lineup in a Chicago game recently to make room for a pinch hitter.

Concrete—Or Wood?

The Athletics played an exhibition game in Newark, Ohio, recently.

Pieinch, one of Mack's youthful backstops, swatted the ball to center field. The Newark outfielder, Nutter by name, misjudged the clout, the ball hit him upon his dome and then bounced over the fence, giving the Blackman a four baser.

MODENA.

Modena, Aug. 24.—Mrs. B. J. Bergman and daughter, Claire, who have been boarding at Dr. J. D. Wurt's, have returned to their home in Nyack.

Miss Florence Baker and girl friend of Newburgh are visiting at the home of Mrs. A. Terwilliger.

Mr. and Mrs. Rullie Ward and son, Berton, spent Sunday at Plattekill.

The funeral of Mrs. N. H. Yeager was held at her late residence Monday at 2:30 p. m. G. H. Schofield of Highland, officiated. Interment at Highland.

Mrs. Yeager leaves to mourn her loss a husband, five sons and one daughter.

Mrs. Constable of Garnettown spent last week visiting with her brother, Anson Armstrong, of this place.

Miss Ethel DuBois spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in this place.

Miss Theresa DuBois, who was home on her vacation, has returned to work at Marlborough.

Vernoy Coy of Marlborough was a visitor in this place on Sunday.

Mrs. William Cole is ill.

Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Hawley returned to their home after spending a couple of weeks with friends in Pennsylvania.

Hot Livers.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

After 39 runless innings, the Giants scored a tally against the Pirates, losing the game 10 to 1.

The once-time husky lead of the Dodgers has shriveled to a mere 18 points, with the Phillies and Braves thundering along.

The Brooklynites are finding that it is easier to win a race in a two team field than one in which three are involved. The Phillies may not pass the Dodgers, but the Braves may—vice versa.

The Red Sox continue along their winning way. They doled out a 3 to 0 beating to the Tigers yesterday and pushed their average up to .598, which is 56 points beyond the second place Yanks.

And 56 points or a matter of 6 1/2 games is quite a bulge at this time of the year.

Eddie Collins stole home against the Senators while Shortstop McBride was fondling the pellet.

Roth got a chance to pastime when Speaker was wounded in the Athletic combat, whereupon Roth, in the second game, banged out three hits, including two homers, scored two runs and stole a sack. Oh, yes, the Injuns won that game.

How to Cut Roses.

There is a right and a wrong way to cut roses. The choice of the latter may seriously injure the blossom-producing properties of the plants, it is pointed out by specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Such plants chosen and grown especially for cut-flower production. Such roses will be largely of the perpetual blooming sort.

When a rose is cut from such plants—tea roses or other perpetual bloomers—only two or three eyes of the current season's growth of that branch should be left on the plant. This should give the roses very long stems. Succeeding blossoms should be cut close to the ground. It will seem like destroying the bush to take so much off it, but if the object is the production of roses the cutting away of the surplus wood will attain the desired end.

If the spring pruning has not been sufficiently severe the plant is likely to have long, naked stalks and short stems to the flowers. With this character of growth only one or two strong leaf buds should be left on the branch when the flower is cut, so as to stimulate as much growth as possible from the base of the plant.

The greatest temptation to leave wood is where there are two or more buds on one branch, some being small when the terminal one is open. This temptation to follow a bad practice can be avoided by pinching off all side shoots after a bud has formed on the end of a branch. This prevents the formation of two or more buds on one stalk. This summer pruning will encourage additional blooms on varieties which bloom more than once a year.

GATEWAY OF HUNGARY.

Carpathian Pass That the Russian Army Has Occupied.

By Telegram to The Freeman

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—

"Jablonica and the pass of the same name, which the Russians are said to have occupied, constitute one of the most important gateways through the high Carpathian mountains from Galicia and Bukovina into Hungary," says today's war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society issued from its Washington headquarters.

"The Carpathians in this vicinity tower to a height of 7,500 feet, but slope gradually down to the southwest through the county of Marmaros. At a distance of 45 miles from the crest the capital of the province, Maramoros-Sziget, is situated at a level of only 900 feet above the sea.

"Jablonica clings to the north-eastern slope of the Carpathians, between the headwaters of the Pruth and the Golden Bistritza Rivers, and is a small station on the 72-mile railway line connecting Stanislaw, now in the hands of the Russians, with Korosmezo, just beyond the pass, to the southwest. Near Korosmezo are valuable petroleum springs.

"The important river Theiss, chief affluent of the Danube, and next to the latter the largest waterway in Hungary, has its source in Marmaros county. Situated on the Theiss and connected by rail with Korosmezo is the flourishing town of Maramoros-Sziget, with a population of 21,000. This will be the first important objective of the Russians after they cross the Carpathians by way of the Jablonica Pass and begin their descent upon the plains of Hungary.

"Maramoros-Sziget is most pleasantly situated at the juncture of the Iza River with the Theiss. To the east tower the well-wooded, snow-capped Carpathians. In this town before the war citizens of many nationalities were busily engaged in an extensive lumber trade and in handling the enormous output of salt (a state monopoly) taken from the mines of three villages contiguous to the county capital. The annual fairs which were held here were an important feature of the industrial life of this part of Hungary, and presented a most picturesque scene to the traveler. A babel of tongues and a kaleidoscope of color resulted from the mingling of Ruthenians, Romanians, Magyars, Gipsies, Slovaks and Armenians, each group dressed in the multi-hued costumes peculiar to their own nationality.

"The salt mines of the Maramoros-Sziget district have been worked for centuries and many Americans who have toured this part of Hungary have visited the deep galleries where rock-crystal walls glitter as if studded with countless iridescent jewels as they reflect the rays of the electric lights. One of the most interesting mines is that of Ronaszek, which contains a great subterranean salt lake having a depth of nearly 300 feet.

While we are against the eternal talker and resent being placed in the roster of patient listeners, we are in no position to ignore the circumstance that the Lord gave man ears to listen with and only one tongue to talk with. Which means he intended people to listen twice as much as they talk. Our kick is we have to listen 40 times as much as talk, and we want to talk—Bessie Post.
